

The EAO Annual Outstanding Achievement Award

2008 Recipient

Dr. Ayman El Mohandes

Chairman of Prevention and Community Health at George Washington University School of Public Health and Health Services & an International authority in the field of Neonatal Care.

After 20 years as an academic practicing pediatrician, Professor El-Mohandes shifted to a career in public health, where he continues to build bridges between medical care and public health practice. Many of Professor El-Mohandes's research and service activities focus on interventions designed to improve maternal and infant health, especially in Egypt and other developing countries and among minority populations in the United States. As principal investigator on DC H.O.P.E.'s Healthy Outcomes of Pregnancy Education, he helped to evaluate an integrated intervention on smoking and psychosocial risk during pregnancy that involved 1,800 women; currently, he serves as PI of a $3.5 million NICHD initiative to reduce smoking among pregnant minority women.
